THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

Papers recorded up to Oct. 23, 1917, are now ready for delivery.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help; do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.

THE INTELLIGENT HANDLING OF CREDITS is a vital part of your business; it measures up in importance with business getting, for while orders keep the business alive, proper credits keep it healthy.

Immediate credit information is the mainstay of the credit man. To be efficient and effective he must know the first thing every business day everything that may affect the credit standing of the customer, present or potential.

Edwards Abstract from Records provides that information first. It comes to the credit man's desk with the beginning of the business day and is a constant guide and index to the ever-shifting kaleidoscope of credit.

Edwards Abstract from Records is the source—the fountainhead—of the credit information of the commercial agencies; and it comes to you every business day, Mr. Credit Man, at least six hours earlier than the Commercial Agency Bulletins.

Has a customer brought suit or been sued; is he taking a partner or forming a corporation; has he or any of his family died or received an estate, or bought a lot or built a house, or been attached or garnisheed, or filed a petition in bankruptcy or sold his business? All this and much other information is furnished daily by Edwards Abstract from Records.

The architect is interested in sales of real estate, for he wants to know who contemplates building; the banker is interested not only in real estate transactions, but in all of the other information affecting the credit of the bank's customers; the brewer and liquor wholesaler are interested in the sale of liquor stores and businesses; the contractor wants to know who has bought property, as do the hardware merchant and the lumber dealer; the money lender, either on chattels or realty must constantly keep his finger on the pulse of the credit standing of the public. To do this all must subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records.

Edwards Abstract from Records is first in point of time.

The information that it contains is complete and absolutely accurate, embracing the full report of all papers, documents and actions in the public offices having to do with matters affecting credits—the offices of the County Clerk, the Justices' Clerk, the Recorder and the Sheriff.

It is compiled by men trained thru years of experience in this work.

It is far more reasonable in price than any other medium of information.

This is a sample copy of Edwards Abstract from Records, the silent messenger of early and accurate credit information.

Considering the value of the information contained in this publication, the subscription price—$2.00 a month—is most moderate.

The best credit information is not too expensive, providing it is early and accurate. The ability of the credit man is impaired if you fail to safeguard his decisions with the best information available.

Credits are being more closely scrutinized every day because of the war and the uncertainty resulting therefrom.

Help, do not handicap, your credit department.

Subscribe for Edwards Abstract from Records and get the most complete and accurate credit information available first, thereby making your credit department a living factor in your business.
